Mayor Ryan closed the public hearing.

Deputy Mayor Scuotto asked for a quick description of what the City was doing.

City Manager Mark Lubelski explained that there was a 16-foot pad that would house the sculpture of the Upside-Down House. It was a nod to the City's history. There would also be a mural with the old post office as well.

Deputy Mayor Scuotto stated that Station 39 needed a clean-up. It appeared tired and run-down. If the City was going to invest money, it should be done at the same time. The City owned the east side condos, but the west side condos were privately owned and looked tired as well. He asked if we were going to knock down the buildings and clean it up. He wanted to know if the City was in contact with the church. He wanted it to look right.

City Manager Mark Lubelski stated that the Library Square Plaza needed updating, but it needed to go through the property owners' association. Code Compliance met with property owners and identified some improvements. It would also occur with other properties in the corridor. The north side has received two RFI submittals and it would come forward shortly. The structure would not be demolished until it was going to be redeveloped. The church did not want to relocate at this time.

Commissioner Douglas asked what the City was doing with the old Public Works site that was being used for parking.

City Manager Mark Lubelski commented that the lot was identified as an opportunity for redevelopment. However, until the City had a better grasp on how City Park was going to be utilized and the events, the City was not going to move forward with development of the site. It was more valuable as a parking lot right now. If it was a permanent parking facility, it should have some formalized pedestrian paths and connections.

Commissioner Douglas believed there needed to be a commitment on the City's part. He agreed that Station 39 needed to be spruced up. The north side property was something he did not want to take over. He did not want to put money into a for-profit business. He hoped that private business would see that investing in the area would be profitable. Many people want to use the park for different events. The City needed to look at the liquor ordinance. The City needed to see how they were going to attract people to the park for maximum usage. No one wants to have an event without liquor.

Deputy Mayor Scuotto replied that the brewery was going to run events.

Commissioner Douglas said the City was not great at producing events. They were not in the entertainment business.

Mayor Ryan agreed that the state of the surrounding properties needed to be looked at, but it was not the City's role to upgrade private property. The parking needed to be discussed.

Deputy Mayor Scuotto was discussing the aesthetics of the area. He did not think the City should give the businesses money. He did not want to rent City facilities to promoters for events. He might agree to one or two. As for companies to rent the facility to have events, he did not want a concert promoter doing that. There would be police and fire details for 4,000 people crossing the street.

Commissioner Douglas stated that the City chose the east side to activate for activity. He did not want to have Tunes & Trucks six times a year at a $7 million facility.

Assistant Deputy Mayor Kerch liked the sculpture.

David Wayne of Avalina Assisted Living, introduced himself to the Commission. They will have 194 apartments in the old Sunrise Hilton Hotel space.

8. Commission/Mayor Reports

Deputy Mayor Scuotto asked to have a meeting with the County Commission about the arena. Broward County Mayor Nan Rich would like to talk about affordable housing. There was a study 10 years ago.

Mayor Ryan said that the County and the Panthers needed to work out the details. When they came to an agreement, the City should be involved. Otherwise, it was a waste of time.

City Manager Mark Lubelski advised that the County had an active applicant for a land use amendment for a quasi-judicial item. It would be in front of the City Commission in six months.

Deputy Mayor Scuotto did not know there was an application. He wanted to know why the Commission was not informed earlier that this was in the pipeline.

Commissioner Douglas said many items were in the pipeline before the Commission heard about items. He had heard 10 years ago plans. The plans may be advancing. The Panthers have not discussed what they want to do. The site did not belong to the City. The City did not have the ultimate say in what would happen. If they come before the Commission, he will give his opinion and will exercise his rights.

Mayor Ryan reiterated it was a waste of time. The City has to wait.

City Manager Mark Lubelski clarified that the application was 3 years old. It was recently resubmitted.

Commissioner Douglas recapped 2023 highlights. He mentioned that Kerion Martin was leaving after 10 years. He complimented IT Director Mo LouisPierre. He thought the IT team did a fantastic job. This past weekend, the dive team found a car. He was glad they had that expertise. The recovery of the vehicle will give closure to a family. Yesterday was his 24-year anniversary. His wife has been supportive. He thanked her for her support.

Commissioner Guzman was amazed at the dive team. She wanted to see what the dive team did. She thanked the Police Department and the donation of the bikes. She hoped to continue the Santa Run and the Grinch. She reminded everyone about the City Hall Grand Opening. She was going to conduct her Wear Red event.

Mayor Ryan thanked Police and Fire for the discovery and the compassionate manner in which it was handled. It was a credit to the sensitivity of the department. The school board voted on the policing plan. The plan was that the SRO system would be dismantled and a 400-member police department would be created. It failed on a 0-9 vote. The millage increase was sold with continuing the SRO program. There was no meaningful engagement. The SROs provide superior service. He discussed the finances and it would not be feasible. There was concern that the term "team player" would mean someone who would not point out problems. Mayor Ryan stated that the plan was asked to be brought forward. But once the members saw it on its merits, it was dismissed. The Broward League had work to do to determine how much of the millage increase should be dedicated to the SROs.
